WILL LAUNCH ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

Boosters From Every Section of Colorado to Meet at Antlers This Noon

CONCERTED EFFORT PLANNED

Civic and Other Organizations All Over State to Be Represented

Perhaps the largest advertising campaign ever conducted to attract visitors to Colorado will be outlined at a special meeting of representatives of all commercial bodies and booster organizations of the state, in the ballroom of the Antlers hotel, this afternoon, commencing at 12 o'clock. The meeting was called by the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's Association, but every civic body in every section of the state has responded to the call, and scores of delegates are expected to be present.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize a permanent association, which will have as its object the concentration and increase of advertising of the resources and attractions of the state. It will provide a continual means for the exploitation of Colorado.

Many methods of advertising the state already have been suggested, including use of the newspapers, institution of popularity contests for trips to Colorado, holding of long-distance auto races and endurance tests to the state and exhibition of motion picture films of scenery and industries. As the work advances, the advertising of Colorado as a winter resort will be taken up, according to plans now discussed.

What Body Will Embrace.

The permanent organization is to consist of one or two members of every commercial body in Colorado, and one each from every motor club, hotel men's association, press club, country club, etc., in the state.

The cooperation of the automobile clubs of the state is especially sought, in order to help make Colorado one of the most popular states for motoring in the country. It is believed that some kind of self-sustaining membership of the permanent organization can be provided by making members of officers of the different state organizations. Thus, as the incumbents of the offices of the commercial bodies change, membership in the publicity body will change accordingly.

The railroad is another factor that will be important in the new organization. Contributions already have been guaranteed from several roads, the companies willingly offering funds outside their regular advertising appropriations. Even the transmissorial roads have signified their willingness to contribute.

Gerrit Fort, general traffic manager of the Union Pacific railroad, in a letter to Lee Hancy, temporary publicity agent of the association, said:

Gerrit Fort's Statement.

"As I said to you in Denver, and I made the statement to the hotel men in their convention, I believe that the railroads, hotels, commercial organizations and others interested in the de-

MARINES LAND IN HONDURAS

NATIVES PROTEST ACT OF U. S. NAVAL OFFICER

Clash Due to Contending Rights of an American Syndicate

PUERTO CORTES, Honduras, Feb. 9.—(Delayed in transit.)—There has been a clash between United States and Honduran authorities over enforcement of a government decree directing representatives of W. S. Valentine to surrender to government authorities the railroad, wharf and other properties held under lease by the Valentine syndicate.

Seven United States marines from the United States gunboat Petrel landed and seized the wharf and railroad. Honduran troops were then ordered to stop all trains. The governor has filed a protest.

The population here was greatly incensed at the landing of the marines. Acting on the authority of congress, which declared the Valentine contracts canceled, President Bonilla ordered that all proceedings be brought against W. S. Valentine of New York, ordered delivery to the government of the railroad and wharf and demanded an accounting for alleged damages sustained by the government.

The decree was served on A. G. Greeley, local manager of the Valentine syndicate, who asked time to communicate with Mr. Valentine. This was refused. Greeley appealed to the American consul, who asked the cooperation of the commander of the gunboat Petrel, now in the harbor.

Enters Formal Protest.

The command requested that the enforcement of the decree be delayed 24 hours until the American consul could communicate with the state department. The governor also refused this and demanded that the railroad and wharf be turned over to him by 8 o'clock this morning. The commander of the Petrel then landed 75 marines and placed them on the wharf and at the railroad office.

The British, Italian, Mexican, Danish and Norwegian consuls were summoned and through them the governor protested to the American consul and the Petrel's commander against the landing of the marines.

President Bonilla was informed and ordered that detachments of armed troops immediately be placed at La Grana, one mile south, and Chamelco, 12 miles south of Puerto Cortes, with instructions to stop all trains. When this order was given several boats were out and their enforcement meant that several ships in the harbor would not be able to get cargo.

Up to the hour of sending this dispatch, February 7, the commander of

Uncooked Fruits and Vegetables May Carry Typhoid, Says Surgeon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Uncooked fruits and vegetables are likely to be carrying agents of typhoid fever, according to Assistant Surgeon Creel of the public health and marine hospital service, as the result of experiments with lettuce and radishes.

In a report today, Dr. Creel declared that, even under conditions most unfavorable to bacteria, the infection lasted at least 31 days, a period sufficiently long for some varieties of lettuce and radishes to mature.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT TO PROTECT CREDITORS

Will Supervise National Banks Which Go Into Voluntary Liquidation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—To protect the creditors of national banks which go into voluntary liquidation, Comptroller Murray today announced that such institutions would be supervised by the treasury department until every dollar of indebtedness was paid.

Henceforth, a bank desiring to go into voluntary liquidation, must appoint a receiver who will report to the treasury department.

GUGGENHEIM TO ENTERTAIN THE REPUBLICAN EDITORS

Asks Them to Be His Guests at Lincoln Day Banquet to Be Given by Party in Denver

DENVER, Feb. 9.—Every Republican editor in Colorado has been invited to be the guest of United States Senator Simon Guggenheim at the Lincoln day banquet to be given by the party at El Jebel temple next Monday evening. There are about 186 Republican editors in Colorado. Alvan Swain, secretary of the Republican Editors association of Colorado received a telegram from Senator Guggenheim recently stating that, as a token of his appreciation of the courtesies that had been shown him by the Republican editors of the state during his term in the senate, he wished to have all of them as his guests at the Lincoln day banquet of the Republican party.

ADVISED VIOLENCE IN LAWRENCE STRIKE

Letters Read at Arraignment of Leaders Charged With Aiding in Murder

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 9.—Joseph J. Etter and Arturo Giovannitti, who, until their arrest were in charge of the strike of textile operatives here, were arraigned today charged with being accessories to the murder of Anna Lopez, who was shot during the riot on January 29. The court continued the case until Monday.

Two letters written by Vincent St. John, general secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World, figured in today's hearing.

One was addressed to Etter and the other to William D. Haywood, the western labor man, who is here assisting the strikers. In one letter St. John wrote:

"A win at Lawrence means a start that will only end with the downfall of the wage system."

In the letter to Haywood, St. John said:

"I want to suggest that if the strike is to be of any length the practice of trying to carry it on by paying strike benefits and opening a commissary must be cut out. There is no chance to win anything that way. Those are out-of-date methods."

"Get those 16,000 or 20,000 organized to break into the jail and make the county feed them while they are on strike. Organize them to go back into the mills and fight there. Get them back as an organization, with the understanding that they are to continue to fight."

That Etter in one of his speeches urged the strikers to "keep the gun shop busy" and declared that he was going to get a gun himself, was the testimony of two newspaper men called to the stand.

REV. F. D. TALMAGE DEAD

Philadelphia Minister Was Son of the Famous Divine, Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—The Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage died at his home here tonight of heart failure. He was 44 years old. His father was the famous divine, Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage.

Mr. Talmage was pastor of the Chambers-Waller Presbyterian church. He came here from Los Angeles. He also had occupied pulpits in Chicago and Pittsburgh.

WIFE OF TAR VICTIM FAVORS A DEFENDANT

ALBERT LEA, Minn., Feb. 9.—The trial of the 11 men charged with tar-fishing and fathoming Dr. J. P. Freeman, of Glenville last April, was interrupted today by the illness of Junior Henry Schenck. The case was adjourned until Monday.

The evidence was completed in the morning. Mrs. Freeman, wife of the physician, was the last witness. Mrs. Freeman's evidence favored Frank Fluzek, one of the 11 defendants, in whose story in Glenville the tar party was alleged to have been planned. Dr. Freeman recently asked divorce from Mrs. Freeman, but his petition was denied.

John Rootz, the undertaker at Glenville, testified that he carried Dr. Freeman to his office after the mob had dispersed.

LIEUT. COMMANDER THOMAS, WEDDED TWO DAYS, IS DEAD

Married While in Bed With Cold That Developed Into Dangerous Illness

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Lieutenant Commander Samuel B. Thomas, U. S. N., who was married Wednesday on his sick bed at a local club, died here today of pneumonia. He was the son of the late Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, and was stationed at Mare Island.

Commander Thomas arrived here four days ago from San Diego, where he had caught cold, while attending the wedding of a fellow officer. Arrangements had been completed for his wedding with Miss Grace Mellus, prominent in Los Angeles, when he was stricken on the day of his arrival. Wednesday he had improved somewhat and in the evening the ceremony took place at his bedside.

Today Commander Thomas' condition became alarming, and he sank rapidly until 4 p. m., when he died.

Rear Admiral Thomas, the father, succeeded the late Rear Admiral Robt. B. Byrnes in command of the Atlantic fleet in its cruise around the world.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN DEAD

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 9.—Col. William H. Stewart, former commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, died at his home in Portsmouth tonight after a short illness from pneumonia. He was 75 years old.

GIVE BANQUET IN HONOR F. B. SMITH

Campaign Leader of Men and Religion Movement Greeted by Springs Residents

About 100 representative business and professional men of this city gave a banquet at the Alamo hotel last night in honor of Fred B. Smith, national campaign leader of the men and religion forward movement, and the International Male quartet, composed of Hal J. Gilbert of Des Moines, Ia.; P. H. McCall of Youngstown, Ia.; C. M. Keeler of New York, and Albert Roberts of New York.

Dr. Samuel Jarvis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, presided, and at the close of the banquet Mr. Smith delivered an interesting address on the men and religion movement.

"The movement was started in New York almost two years ago as an all-day meeting of 44 men from all parts of the United States," said Mr. Smith, "and was permanently organized last September. As present we have four teams of seven men each on the road, and they visit 15 cities in the United States and 20 in Canada, staying at each city one week. Six men on the teams represent the six departments of the movement: namely, Bible study, boys' mission, social service, evangelistic and community extension departments."

Social Service Department.

The social service department is especially interesting, according to Mr. Smith, those engaged in it doing the work the churches should do. In fact, he said, the churches will have to

NO SECOND INVITATION

Latin-American Countries Will Not Be Asked to Participate in Panama-California Exposition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The senate committee on expositions today voted adversely on the resolution requesting the president to invite Latin-American countries to participate in the Panama-California exposition at San Diego, Cal., in 1915. As San Francisco is to hold an exposition the same year, in which the nations of the world already have been invited to participate, the committee decided that an invitation to a second fair was inadvisable.

P. O. DEPARTMENT IS TO INVESTIGATE LAND DEALS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The post office department is to investigate land syndicate dealings in Florida everglades property involved in the controversy with the department of agriculture which is to be investigated by a house committee.

White Representative Clark of Florida, whose charges precipitated the congressional inquiry, was preparing for the investigation today, he received a request from the post office department for copies of his speech assailing officials in the agricultural department and also any other information he has on the subject.

The investigation will begin tomorrow.

WESTERN RAILWAY MEN TO FEDERATE

Conductors, Engineers, Firemen and Brakemen May Join Shop Employees

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The Record-Herald this morning says: Plans for the formation of a territorial organization of railroad shop employees that will include every railroad operating west of the Mississippi river are being secretly perfected by the labor officials. As soon as the association is founded, demands will be made for a general advance in wages on every road. A meeting to complete the combination will be held in Kansas City, March 4.

The plan is said to be the most far-reaching of any that has been attempted. Railroad managers were alarmed when they learned that the shop crafts were forming federations on each system, and it was the refusal of the managers to recognize such bodies that led to the strike on the Illinois Central and the Harriman lines.

The system federations aim to unite all the mechanical trades on each railroad.

The new plan of organization aims to combine all the federations so that when demands are made they will be made on all railroads in the same territory at the same time, and if a strike is called it will involve all the roads simultaneously.

That the reformation plan of organization is taking firm hold, the leaders say, is shown in the fact that the four big railroad brotherhoods formed a federation on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad recently.

This federation includes the locomotive engineers, firemen, brakemen and conductors, and they are all pledged to stand together in the event either one is involved in a dispute. For several years the brakemen and conductors have acted jointly, although not belonging to separate organizations, and this is said to be the first time in railroad history that the engineers and firemen have joined with the others.

The organization, if consummated on the lines planned, will embrace more than 100,000 men in the mechanical trades on the railroads, who would be ready to act as a unit in the event of a strike.

Confirms Chicago Report.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 9.—W. E. Rhodes, president of the local federation of the Harriman line shop employees, confirmed today the report from Chicago that a union of all the employees of the mechanical departments of western railroads would be considered at a conference at Kansas City, March 4, and added that the plan was to include engineers, firemen, conductors, switchmen and brakemen, as well as shopmen. The first demand, he said, would be for recognition of the federation.

The mechanics' organization has been on strike since last October.

Antipublic Speaking Order Results in 58 Arrests in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 9.—Fifty-eight arrests have been made here within 24 hours during an orderly and concerted series of violations of an antipublic speaking order which went into effect yesterday. The latest dozen intentional violators of the order were arrested tonight.

Between 5,000 and 10,000 members of the Industrial Workers of the World it is said, are on their way here to continue the "protest" against the order. There is talk of a vigilance committee to be formed in order to stop the influx of the industrial workers.

MORSE TOO SICK TO GO INTO BUSINESS, SAYS SON

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Regarding a report that Charles W. Morse might reenter Wall street again, his son, Harry, today made this statement: "My father has never said a word—not even to my mother—about going into business again. The stories that he is planning revenge upon those who fought him in the financial world are ridiculous. He is too sick a man for anything like that."

NORWEGIAN MINISTERS HAND IN RESIGNATIONS

Action Due to Their Opposition to Making Peasant Dialect Norway's Literary Language

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 9.—The resignations yesterday of the minister of foreign affairs, justice, commerce, defense and culture and public instruction were due to their opposition to the movement to make the peasant dialect Norway's literary language. This movement has been actively supported by Premier Knudsen, who in a recent speech characterized opponents of the change fanatics. This incensed the conservatives and liberals in the storting, who with a majority of authors and scientists favored the retention of the modified Danish tongue as the literary language of the country. They asked the premier to resign and when he refused they requested their representatives in the cabinet to give up their portfolios.

RESCIND ORDER FOR MOVING TROOPS

Mexico Cannot Send Soldiers Through U. S. For Present at Least

TEXANS FEAR AN OUTBREAK

Rumored Madero Intended General Military Advance Against Chihuahua

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Diplomatic complications arose today between the state of Texas and the United States government on one hand and the Mexican government on the other, which temporarily at least, will not allow Mexico to move any troops over American land in connection with her revolutionary disturbances. Secretary of State Knox tonight made further inquiries from Mexico, through the American embassy at Mexico City, asking the specific purpose of the military expedition, for which permission is sought to travel from El Paso, Tex., to El Paso, Tex., in order that the rebels have cut international railway communication may be reached.

Governor Colquhoun of Texas pointed out to the state department in his messages today that residents of El Paso were apprehensive that rebels at Juarez might resist the entry of Mexican troops from American territory and precipitate a battle endangering American lives and property.

Secretary Knox assured Governor Colquhoun that no permission would be granted for foreign troops movements until the matter has been carefully studied, and indications tonight were that it would be adjusted in a satisfactory manner.

Fear General Troop Movement.

The state department had completed arrangements for the expedition, instructing the treasury department to notify the custom office and the war department and its border patrol that the troops might be expected in a few days. The order was similar to those issued last year in connection with the safeguarding of the irrigation projects of Americans in lower California, but it was pointed out that in the latter case a specific purpose was mentioned and understood.

In connection with the expedition to Juarez the state department heard that Mexico intended not alone to replenish the garrison opposite El Paso, but to pour a host of troops into northern Chihuahua for a general military movement. It was indicated that while the rebels might not object to a replenishing of Juarez, thus avoiding guerrilla complications, they might offer armed resistance to a movement aimed generally at the trouble zone.

Escort Ready to Act.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Feb. 9.—Lieutenant Nelson and a detachment of 15 cavalrymen from Fort Clark came to Eagle Pass today to escort a Mexican troop train through Texas en route to Juarez.

Mexican international railroad officials assert that they are without information as to the troop movement and the time of their arrival cannot be ascertained. Rebel airplanes in the

WORK TO BEGIN AT ONCE ON FORKLESS

Will Be Built on Island at Pacific Entrance to Panama Canal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Work on the great fortress on Flamenco island, which will guard the Pacific entrance to the Panama canal, is to begin at once under orders issued by the war department today.

This island lies directly in front of the canal entrance, and as the nearest neck, the injury or destruction of which would prevent the operation of the canal, lies eight miles inland, the Flamenco defenses will insure safety for the great waterway on that side. No hostile ship could get within striking distance of the neck without fatal exposure to the guns of the fort. The defenses will comprise 14-inch guns and the heaviest type of sea coast mortars.

The engineers' work will be made to begin the construction of a canal defense aid culture and public instruction were due to their opposition to the movement to make the peasant dialect Norway's literary language. This movement has been actively supported by Premier Knudsen, who in a recent speech characterized opponents of the change fanatics. This incensed the conservatives and liberals in the storting, who with a majority of authors and scientists favored the retention of the modified Danish tongue as the literary language of the country. They asked the premier to resign and when he refused they requested their representatives in the cabinet to give up their portfolios.

development of passenger traffic to Colorado could profitably join hands in a mutual arrangement for exploiting the attractions and resources of Colorado. In a united campaign, much more effective results could, in my opinion, be obtained than by the present methods under which the railroads and other advertisers of Colorado scatter their fire.

Active preparations for this convention have been in progress for several weeks, and the next thing to do is effect permanent organization and get to work. Thousands of tourists have been brought to Colorado through the efforts of local publicity bureaus, but it is estimated that tens of thousands will be brought through the work of the new state body.

The convention will close tonight with a dinner at the Antlers, given by Manager W. S. Dunning, complimentary to the delegates.

A special meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Antlers hotel next Tuesday night, but the regular semi-monthly meeting, which is scheduled to take place next Wednesday noon, probably will be postponed several days, on account of the absence of a number of the directors.

Claim Texas Slayer Was Mentally Irresponsible

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 9.—That the defense will contend that John Beal Sneed, Amarillo, ex-banker, was mentally irresponsible when he killed A. G. Boyce, Sr., developed today in the trial of Sneed charged with Boyce's murder.

The elopement of his wife and A. G. Boyce, Jr., rendered the man insane, counsel for Sneed explained. In order to have read to the jury a letter written by Sneed to W. H. Fuqua of Amarillo after the departure of Mrs. Sneed and the younger Boyce from Fort Worth.

The letter told of Sneed's love for his wife, of his humiliation and the effects of the mother's action on the children.

Several witnesses declared that Sneed's victim had made remarks derogatory to Mrs. Sneed.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 9.—Copies of a manifesto issued in the city of Chihuahua by Acting Governor Aureliano S. Gonzalez this morning reached Ciudad Juarez this afternoon. He calls upon the people of the state to abide by the law and to uphold the present national administration. He tells the people of the state of Chihuahua that the United States government, regarding the Mexicans as an inferior race and incapable of self-government, is now assembling a large army to invade Mexico, and as he expresses it, "to tread its saintly soil, which is sprinkled with the blood of heroes and martyrs."

"It is in this work that the church falls," said Mr. Smith, "and this is where the met and religion forward movement comes in. The church forces should be so strong that they can tell who will be the next mayor of the city; the church should fight every movement that is not for the best interests of the community. No matter what new idea is advanced, there is always a fight about it, and the church should be ready to fight for every good movement that is introduced."

Mr. Smith took up each department, telling what work it accomplishes and explaining the different phases of the work. He told especially of the boys department and the work it is doing.

At present, the men and religion movement is established in 1,541 cities, and the promoters expect to make it reach every city in the United States in a short time.

Indorse President's Action.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—The central American colony in New Orleans was stirred today by the news of a clash at Puerto Cortez between the American and Honduran authorities.

Late today four of the principal advisers of President Manuel Bonilla of Honduras met here and signed a statement endorsing his attitude of firmness at Puerto Cortez Wednesday. These former officials of Honduras were Dr. Policarp Bonilla, former president; Dr. Angel Ugarte, former minister of foreign relations; and former minister to the court of St. James and to Washington; Gen. Juan A. Paredes, former minister of finance; and former Honduran special envoy to Washington, and Gen. Francisco Altshul, former minister of commerce and public works.

The statement taking up the order of the government to take possession of the railroad, wharf and light-house at Puerto Cortez which were in the possession of W. S. Valentine, says of the situation:

Failed to Return Contract.

"Mr. Valentine, in the years 1907-8, made two contracts with the government of Honduras, by the terms of which he was granted a limited operator's lease of the railroad and wharf, contracts which by constitutional requirements had to be submitted to congress for approval, and it having been agreed that in the event of failure of congress to approve, Valentine would return the property to the government and receive in return the money advanced by him owing to the lease."

"Before congress discussed these contracts they were specifically rescinded by an agreement signed by Mr. Valentine and the government. This agreement, however, was violated by Mr. Valentine by his failure to return to the government the railroad and wharf as agreed upon."

"The national congress, acting in accordance with its legislative powers, rejected the contracts under consideration."

"Mr. Valentine," they conclude, "has been in illegal and illegal possession of the railroad, wharf and light-house for several years."

Government Inquisitor in Indian Fraud Case Accused by Defendant

DETROIT, Minn., Feb. 9.—M. C. Burch, principal inquisitor for the government in the congressional investigation of the charges of fraud in connection with Indian affairs at White Earth reservation, himself was the object of examination today, being questioned by Gus Beaulieu, against whom the attack of the government has been directed.

Mr. Beaulieu charged Mr. Burch and the men who have been working with him with prolonging the litigation in order to hold their positions, and that members of the family of Mr. Burch and E. F. Long had been favored with positions in the prosecution of the suits.

In close connection with the hearing it became known today that W. F. Bickel, formerly cashier of the Chippewa State bank of White Earth, had been placed under arrest on a charge of defrauding Mrs. Bonga, a Chippewa squaw, out of $1,000. Gus Beaulieu formerly was president of the bank, but he sold it a year ago to Bickel. Ben Fairbanks and Harvey Shapp of Duluth, a son of Senator Moses Clapp.

Mr. Bonga makes the charge that Mr. Bickel, by using her daughter as an agent, without her knowledge had transferred from a bank in Detroit to the White Earth bank. The bank closed last summer but it is said all creditors will be paid.

Bickel protests his innocence.

F. J. EASTON, WITNESS IN PATTERSON CASE, WEDS AND DISAPPEARS

DENVER, Feb. 9.—With detectives on his trail, Francis J. Easton, the star witness for the defense in the Patterson murder trial, is spending his honeymoon in the wilds of western Canada, using every artifice he knows to keep from being captured and brought back to Denver.

Easton has several times been on the verge of being nabbed by the police in first one and then another city, but had always left when they learned he had been there.

Easton left Denver immediately after testifying in the Patterson trial and went to Minneapolis. It was about a day after he arrived there that he was notified that an attempt might be made to bring him back to Denver. Easton disappeared suddenly and nothing more was heard of him in Minneapolis until a month or two later, when he returned as suddenly as he left, married and disappeared again.

It was thought that with the added burden of a wife and the fact that he was on his honeymoon would make his capture more easily effected, but instead of that he was able to keep out of harm's way. He was next heard of in Superior, Wis., where he went with his bride, but with the detectives camping on his trail. He left Superior without notice of his destination and was traced to that city, but again left before the police could lay hands on him.

The special committee of the Denver Bar association which has been investigating the trial of Mrs. Gertrude Gibson Patterson for the murder of her husband, Charles A. Patterson, is convinced that Easton committed perjury in testifying that he witnessed the shooting of Patterson. If he can be located he will be brought back here at once and prosecuted for perjury.

The committee has also been reliably informed that Easton was paid a cash consideration of a considerable amount for his testimony, and that it was on the money thus secured that he was enabled to get married. The woman he married, it was learned, was an old flame of his whom he had been courting for a long time. He was financially without funds and she refused his offers of marriage on the ground that he was not in a position to give her a home.

The Bar association committee has the exact date and other information regarding Easton's marriage and will hold a meeting next week to further consider the evidence so far adduced concerning the case. If he is in Canada he will be extradited, so that the fact he has left this country will avail him nothing.

PUT STENOGRAPHER TO TEST

J. E. Sheridan Concealed From Speakers, Taking Notes Over an Electrical Apparatus

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The senate former committee today in executive session put J. E. Sheridan, the detective stenographer who has figured in the charges of alleged perjury of Charles McGowan, a Hines-Lorimer witness, to a test of his ability to record conversations over an electrical apparatus. While concealed from the speakers.

Two committee stenographers took notes with Sheridan and the test ended in a wrangle. The Lorimer lawyers maintained that Sheridan "had not made good."

Representatives of the other side declared he "had done as well as could be expected." Immediately after the test, Sheridan was put in the witness chair, and seemed to have no difficulty in reading his notes. There were frequent breaks, but it was said they represented parts of sentences which he did not record because he had been instructed to take only conversation relating to the Lorimer case.

Edward Hines denied before the committee that he had tried to bribe Miss Helen Seay, telegraph operator in a hotel here, to show him a message Detective Bailey had sent H. E. Kerr. In cross-examination Healey asked Hines if he had not gone to the operator who relieved Miss Stevens, telling him he was A. C. Healey and asking for a copy of the telegram.

"No, sir," Hines replied.

FIFTY MINERS ENTRAPPED

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 9.—Fifty miners were trapped tonight in the Fairmount Coal company's coal shaft at Bennett station. They have been there since early morning, and there is no prospect of release before tomorrow. All are believed safe. The cages were stuck in the shaft. The men's egress was by way of the air shaft, which was checked by the men dug at this all day and should dig through by noon tomorrow.

DEADLOCK OVER PARDON

Governor and State Board of Pardons Unable to Agree Regarding S. W. Morris Case

DENVER, Feb. 9.—Governor Shafroth and the state board of pardons deadlocked today on the proposal to pardon Sherman W. Morris, alias Frank Shercliffe, who is serving a 20-year term in the penitentiary for killing John Walsh, a Leadville saloon-keeper, in 1894.

Technical victories in the case, however, are recorded both for the governor and for the members of the board who favored the pardon in today's session. The governor made it plain that he would deny a pardon if the board should recommend it. If he were given the opportunity to make such refusal it would, under the law, be impossible to consider the pardon application for two more years. The board therefore struck the case from the docket, so that action may be taken at any future meeting.

Shercliffe's application is based on his charge and that of his friends that he has been and is being persecuted by "Tom" Denison, an Omaha politician.

CHICAGO STREET RAILWAY STRIKE IS THREATENED

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—President John M. Rogach of the Chicago Railways company conferred today with representatives of the company's employees regarding differences which, it is said, may lead to a strike. No one who attended the conference would discuss it. The men are said to have complained of alleged hardships imposed recently and the removal of James B. Hogarth, the superintendent, it has been stated, is among their demands.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

THE English postal savings bank system has been in operation about a half century, and its deposits now amount to $820,000,000. The American system has been established less than a year, but its deposits are already close to $20,000,000. In Chicago alone they amounted to $578,000 on November 30, the latest date for which statistics are available.

The showing made by the postal savings banks in their brief existence is wholly creditable and fully justifies their establishment. For years advocates of the system have contended that its introduction would be the means of obtaining for deposit, and therefore off placing in circulation, enormous sums of money which otherwise would remain hidden. There is a very large element of our population—the uneducated foreign element—that profoundly distrusts private banks. At home, in Europe, these people were accustomed to deposit their savings with the government, in the postal savings banks. When they came to America they found no such institutions, and, in their sublime ignorance, being profoundly suspicious of all private banking concerns, preferred to hoard their money, bury it, or hide it in a stocking or a mattress, rather than deposit it. In the aggregate the sums thus permanently kept out of circulation run high into the hundreds of millions, and to this total must be added the large amounts remitted to friends and relatives in Europe, for no better reason than that the owners here did not know how to dispose of it safely.

This is one of the important sources of patronage of the postal savings banks, and another is the large class of native Americans who do not live within reach of private savings institutions and have no means of depositing their small accumulations of money to good advantage. The postal savings bank, with a branch in every city and hamlet, will ultimately be accessible to the entire population. It will receive for deposit, and pay interest on, the few pennies of the child or the month's wages of the workman, and the security is absolute. The millions thus received by the Government are immediately reinvested at a rate of interest enough higher than the rate paid depositors to defray the cost of the service.

The showing up to the present time indicates that the move was justified, but its full value probably will not be proved until another financial panic occurs. We shall then see whether the postal savings bank possesses enough of the confidence of a usually suspicious public to attract a considerable portion of the funds which, at such times, are hidden away in an old sock.

AMERICAN NERVES

FOR several years past we Americans have been putting the blame for all sorts of weaknesses on a peculiar form of neurasthenia which somebody has dubbed "Americanitis." Only a little later than the appearance of this form of nerve exhaustion came Prof. Hugo Muensterberg, from Germany, to assume the chair of psychology at Harvard. For ten or twelve years Prof. Muensterberg has been a source of vast comfort to millions of Americans who like to excuse their idiosyncracies by calling themselves neurasthenics.

He wrote a book in German, which was published in Europe expressly for the information of Europeans, in which he sought to interpret American ideas and ideals to the European mind. But the book was promptly translated into English and published in America, and to put himself right Prof. Muensterberg thereupon wrote another book expressly for American consumption in which he tried to analyze American life from the viewpoint of a German resident in the United States. In the last three or four years he has contributed voluminously to the magazines on various aspects of the science of psychology, especially as developed in his laboratory. Nobody who has read his articles will deny that they are interesting. Whether or not they are important remains to be seen.

But, to get back to the less scientific aspect of the matter, there is no doubt as to the interest of his scientific writings: to the average man who has or thinks he has a case of "nerves." As Muensterberg puts it, "we see the individual rush to his business or devour his lunch, see the overflow of useless movements from the chomping of gum to the ceaseless motion of the rocking chair, or watch the hustling and pushing of public life, and hasty passing from one movement to another. Everything suggests a nervous condition of society. Two-thirds of our acquaintances have neurasthenia, and nervous prostration is the passion for men and women alike. And with the haste has come the noise. The metropolitan who has to think while the telephone rings and the elevated roars and the typewriter hammers, must be a wreck before he is through with his work. There is no longer any repose or any relief. The nervousness of our time comes with the necessity of a natural effect."

But Prof. Muensterberg finds relief in the conclusion that "it is an illusion that our time is any more nervous than earlier periods." He thinks that "our poor forefathers had to go through much nerve irritation" perhaps as much of it as we endure. The evident conclusion is that we of the present day, who think ourselves especially subject to nerve strain, are no worse off than our forebears.

Prof. Muensterberg may be right, but if so there is small consolation in the fact. The never-ending stress of American life is such that the only wonder is that anybody escapes a bad case of "nerves." The proportion of people who do their sleeping with the aid of pills and potions and get through the day's work only with the aid of some sort of stimulant is constantly increasing. They are the people with "nerves," and their efficiency is liable to diminish in inverse ratio to their use of artificial stimulants. The overworked, overwrought American faces the problem of replacing "nerves" with "nerve" which is a very different thing and he will not find the solution until he decides to cast off a part of the load of work and devote a considerable portion of his time and energy to outdoor recreation, even at the risk of losing a few dollars.

PRINCETON'S CREED

From the Philadelphia Record.
President Wilson epitomizes the Princeton creed in five negatives: "No pedantry in scholarship. No affectation in manners. No hypocrisy in morals. No dissimulation in friendship, and no cant in religion." To this he might have added the famous Greek admonition, slightly modified to make it harmonize with the Princeton formula, "No thys."

MERE MAKE BELIEVE

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.
When Col. Henry Watterson returned from Europe in November, 1909, he hastened to make the prediction that there would be a political collision between Theodore Roosevelt and Mr. Taft. Whereupon the New York World joyfully welcomed the opportunity, fearlessly edited the Louisville editor and proclaimed its mock faith in the personal loyalty of Mr. Roosevelt to his friend in the White House. Colonel Watterson, entering into the game with zest, bet the editor of the World a dinner for four and twenty that the first Monday of December, 1911, William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, are at daggers drawn.

The comedy was resumed Saturday morning last, when Colonel Watterson claimed the payment of the bet from the World, which yesterday jubilantly admitted that it had lost. Incidentally, the two Democratic organs make their little game of make-believe the text for a repetition of their familiar attacks on Roosevelt with a bait that an avowed foe was the sole purpose of the whole proceeding. It may contribute to the gaiety of the hour and twenty guests, but so far as adding to the public knowledge concerning the relation actually existing between Taft and Roosevelt it is as worthless as the assertions of any opposing partisan anxious to pretend to find division in the other camp.

FIRE!

From the Chicago Tribune.
This is the season when the frequent sound of the fire going punctuates the lesson of America's staggering fire waste.

It averages $250,000,000 a year.
That is $500 a minute.

Add to that the cost of the maintenance of fire departments in every city and town of the land.

Add to that the cost of lives lost not only the cost of property, but the cost in joy and suffering.
The bill is too large. It is more than even rich and reckless America can afford. So great a strain on our wealth—for fire does not merely redistribute, it destroys wealth—saps the prosperity of the nation, weakens its power to compete, checks its growth. Extravagant as we are, this is one of our worst wastes.

There is a remedy through education in greater care in better construction, in methods of fire prevention. The National Fire Protection association, with a membership of more than 100 underwriters, builders and other organizations, is engaged in a propaganda to establish better standards for the checking of fire waste. It should be given assistance by the press, by the support of business men and property owners throughout the nation. The association has been working for over 15 years, but as evil like the fire waste, will be abated only by persistent education for many years.

THE ROAD TO KEY WEST

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
This is a work which never would have been achieved save that Mr. Flagler believed in Florida. His primary interest in the state was in the fact that a beloved daughter died there. He has since expended many scores of millions of dollars in various enterprises connected with the state, of which he has paid most out of his own pocket. He owns the railway and many hotels, which are the most marvelous in the world. His latest enterprise was one which promised him no financial return for his investment. He asked engineers to survey the route from Miami to Key West to see if a line of rails was possible. The report was favorable. He ordered the construction without asking what was the estimated cost, but that has footed up almost $200,000 a mile, or about four times the average cost of American railways.

What does that mean to America?

of the rich deposits of southern Florida are open to exploitation.
Florida is coming into its own. It was much overestimated by Ponce de Leon, but it is becoming available for millions, whereas it now counts its population by thousands only.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
There is an old saying that a fool and his money are soon parted, and this has been quoted many times recently simply because a man who for the first time in his life had a "bunch of money" preferred to "blow it all in" rather than make it the nucleus of a little fortune for his old age.

We do not quarrel with this man. If he considers that he has gotten his money's worth out of his little journey into the big world, all right. But it is worth noting that this man ought never to complain if in days to come he lacks for some of the things which are mere necessities of life.

Compared with the total population, not many men have $2,500 at any one time in cash. And that sum, properly invested, is a rather good insurance against the terrors of old age. But why should there be in this country that cheerful optimism which always imagines that better things are coming tomorrow and that one may spend all he has today and run in debt in the full confidence that next day there will be a fortune?

In this country there are as many opportunities for work and for investment as ever. Never was it more practicable to use the maxim of Poor Richard. Yet it is much to be feared that it is impossible to induce most people to make these maxims working principles of life.

Life is short—I've much to do—so I can't sit around with you putting up a line of walling, talking of some fellow's failings, thrashing over the situation that is threatening our nation. Life is short and I am busy writing verses dull and daisy, that the fraud may have a bonnet with a large stuffed rooster on it, and I haven't time for fussing over the government or cussing mistle laws which knock the people higher than the village steeple. Life is short, the thread is slender, and I'm hustling a suspicious fairy tearing up the track to accumulate a package, so that when I get old and hoary I can live in pomp and glory. So that when at last I'm planted my fat ghost will not be haunted by a hungry widow's sighing—so I haven't time for crying over the nation's chronic troubles, or the "peepuls" busted bubbles. Life is short and men are fooling time away in empty drooling over things that don't concern them, dodging fires that n'er will burn them.

"The hurried restless pace at which we live, each day filled to the brim with things which are hardly as important as we think them, and which have cost us the old, rich hours of leisurely thought and meditation."—Agnes Repplier.

In the world of science and invention there are many lost arts. For instance, the other day an antiquarian showed me a beautiful vase of ruby glass, in which the glass had been colored all the way through. The art of doing that has been completely lost. Nowadays, glass is merely colored on both sides. Again, everyone knows that the art of making the fascinating, old-fashioned huster ware, has long since slipped from the minds of men into impenetrable oblivion.

Now it seems to me that in the world of living there are also many lost arts. And the chief of them is the art of having time.
This is preeminently an age of time-saving devices. And yet it is an age of time starvation. Why is it so?
There is no room for doubt that our ancestors had more time than we for many good things. If you have any skepticism on that subject, look up a packet of your grandmother's letters. Or, if you don't keep such things, accept my assurance that, if she were like her contemporaries, those letters were many pages long and probably crossed. In an old trunk in the garret, we have my grandmother's diary. It is written in a fine handwriting and a year of it occupies a good-sized volume. And yet my grandmother was the mother of four children and the hard worked wife of an underpaid Methodist minister who, according to the laws of the church, changed parishes every year or two.

Look at the books people used to read. Compare a novel of Dickens, Scott or Thackeray in length with one of our modern novels. Go back a little further and glance at Clarissa Harlowe in seven volumes or Tom Jones in six.

Think of the visits people used to pay. In our grandmother's day, a visit out shorter than a week would have been thought almost an insult, and in Jane Austen's works, the heroines and their friends think nothing of a six weeks' visit.

Compare all this with the customs of today. Our letters are notes, our diaries—in the rare cases in which any are kept—are line-a-day books, our reading "mag" magazines and our visits are chiefly "week-enders."

And yet the twentieth century is the age of time-saving devices. There's the telephone, the limited express, the automobile, the predigested housekeeping, the fountain pen, and a thousand other devices to save us seconds or hours, many of which have become such an accustomed part of our living that we scarcely recognize them as time-savers.

Again I ask, why is it that with all these devices to save time, we seem to have so much less of that precious commodity than our grandmothers did?

I have an answer to my question. I don't know that it will appeal to you, but it is the only answer I have been able to formulate after very much thought on this subject.

It seems to me that this generation is just like a man whose money has increased at a rapid rate, and, who, has felt so delighted and expansive at this increase, that he has allowed his wants and his expenditures to increase just about twice as fast.

For every hour we've saved, we've tried to use two. Grandmother made soap and her mother spun the wool to make the family clothes. The woman of today does neither and should have that much more time. Instead she uses up that time and much more in extra burdens which she imposes upon herself. She has bread and butter plates to wash and three courses to prepare and clear away at dinner, and many other things to do, which grandmother thought of.

That's the example of the way in which we habitually overspend a continually increasing income. Dickens makes one of his characters say something to the effect that if a man has ten pounds of two pounds and spends one pound, he is shillings, he is rich, but if he has an income of four pounds and spends four pounds, one shilling, he is poor and unhappy.

It seems to me that some of the discontent and restlessness of this generation, of which we hear so much, may be due to the fact that it never lives within its time income.

The Great Conflict

A Half Century Ago Today

FEBRUARY 10, 1862

The naval force connected with General Burnside's expedition against Roanoke Island, which had lately succeeded in capturing the island, destroyed the efficiency of the Confederate fleet, which had escaped capture or destruction on the day when the island fell into the hands of the Union forces. Commander Rowan, with 14 vessels, following the Confederate squadron, came up with it off Cobb's point at 6 o'clock in the morning and attacked. Five of the Confederate vessels were beached and burned by their crews, two of them escaped and one was captured. The fort at Cobb's point was abandoned, and Elizabeth City surrendered to Commander Rowan.

General Hunter of the Union army proclaimed martial law throughout Kanawha and declared the crime of jayhawking should be put down with a strong hand and summary measures. The expedition of Union gunboats which had been sent up the Tennessee river after the capture of Fort Henry returned to the railroad bridge, 25 miles below the fort. Several Confederate vessels, some in process of conversion into gunboats, and some in service as transports, were captured and brought back. A quantity of timber for ship building was seized and conveyed into Union territory. The expedition reported evidences along the river of loyalty among the citizens to the United States. A number of Tennessees were enlisted. Captain Smith's Union force was engaged at Linn Creek, Va.

General Butler's army crossed the Potomac, Harper's Ferry and advanced on Charleston, Va. (Copyright, 1912, by W. G. Chapman.)

Prominent Democrat of Buffalo Is Dead

BUFFALO, Feb. 9.—James Noble Adam, former Democratic mayor of Buffalo and founder of the dry goods house of J. N. Adam & Co., died here at 3 o'clock this morning, after a brief illness.

Mr. Adam was seized with a fainting spell yesterday afternoon while visiting the office of Mayor Plattman, his successor. He apparently was suffering from an attack of acute indigestion, but was able to walk to his automobile and was taken home. Up to midnight his condition was not regarded as serious, but early this morning another attack, apparently of apoplexy, caused his death.

He was 70 years old. He retired from business life in 1907 and had devoted most of his time ever since to public affairs. His term as mayor expired last year.

Mr. Adam returned recently from Perthshire, Scotland, his birthplace, where it was his custom to make an annual visit. He came to America in 1872, after serving his apprenticeship in commercial life in Scotland, and was a resident of New Haven, Conn., until 1881, when he came to Buffalo. For a score of years he had been a conservative Democrat of national prominence.

AGED COUPLE ARE EJECTED FROM HOME FOR MARRYING

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 9.—Six weeks ago D. P. Starns and Mrs. W. B. Ellis, both inmates of the Confederate home at Higginville, Mo., were married. Five days ago they were ordered to leave the home, as marriage between the inmates is not allowed, according to Starns.

After leaving the home the old couple, both more than 70 years old, came to Kansas City. They had 15 cents when they reached here today and their application for entrance to the county home was granted.

Starns, in telling of his troubles, said: "I was in Senator Cockrell's brigade and saw hard service in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia during the war."

When Mrs. Ellis became ill five months ago, I was assigned to wait upon her. We just decided that if younger folks could get married we could. Two other couples at the home want to get married, but fear they will be expelled.

Nothing Can Undermine It in Colorado Springs.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Colorado Springs residents, expressed publicly, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

J. E. Carter, 410 Williamette Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I had a bad case of kidney trouble. My back ached severely and the kidney secretions were painful in passage. There were sharp pains in my kidney and in my sides and hips and I knew that something must be done. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me after I had taken the contents of two boxes. Do All Men Like Girls?

If the eyes of the sensible bachelor of perhaps 40 happen to rest on this article, he will be apt to pass it by, feeling justified in believing that the remarks which follow are not aimed at him. It takes all kinds of men to make a world. There never was a truer words than, "All the world loves a lover." It does seem strange that there are different kinds of sweethearts whom men would woo.

The happy-go-lucky bachelor, people would imagine, would take to a giddy young girl to make love to. But he is wiser than the people who are judging him. When he marries it is generally found that it is the sensible, dignified young woman who appeals to his heart. Whereas, the man of middle age, who is supposedly a deep thinker, deeply grounded in good sense, and with no nonsense about him, instead of choosing for a wife a woman seemingly suitable for his age, is not satisfied with a girl in her teens. Does not what a merry chase she leads him. It is an ingenious man who can roll back time. Revelling once again in his boyish sports, he is able to talk with her upon the topics which interest her mostly. She is not interested in the subject of the day.

Down deep in her heart the maid of 16 considers the bachelor of 40 almost as old as Methuselah. He doesn't know that the boys and girls whom she charms with make all manner of fun of him behind his back in which she joins heartily. The girl does not understand the man of middle age. Try as he may, he cannot fully understand her. One time in a thousand a man might warm such a girl's heart to real love, but the fear is always with him as to whether it will be lasting or not. After they marry he might feel the keenest need of sitting by the warm fireside; she might pour and develop the keenest desire to go to balls and parties and enjoy to the full her social position which she has gained through marriage with him. There's no use in talking; spring and autumn cannot jog along together.

Every middle aged man who is in love with a younger girl will firmly believe that his is the thousandth case referred to, where his ardent love has awakened a responsive chord in her young heart and he is beloved in return. We all hope with him that he will find this to be true. I fervently believe all men like girls, but the sensible girls of marriageable age are apt to capture the men most worth winning. It is well all men do not choose alike.

ANSWERS
"Dear Miss Libbey: Your advice to people entangled in love's snare, has been a solace to me in many sad moments; may it again be true. I have been keeping company with an attractive young widow nine years my senior. I am of a very retiring disposition. I am unable to propose, because, although I love her to distraction, my tongue deserts me at crucial moments. Can you suggest a method of remedying this difficulty? If so, won't you publish an irresistible proposal which will overthrow all possible reluctance on her part? She has money and I have not. My conscience troubles me. Should I?"
J. H. M.

Yes, if you are marrying her for her money, it should. Simply say to the Better let him go.

MARRIED WOMAN OF 16.
"Dear Miss Libbey: I am a young married woman of only 16. I have been married only three months and already I am beginning to feel that I am not as happy as I expected to be. I am not good looking, but my husband is, and his knowing this makes it hard for me, as he is always bragging about himself. He also wants to be 'book.' I don't deny that the man of the house has a right to have things as he pleases, but when I say anything it's all wrong with him and then he fusses at me. Now, if I say anything back to him, he says I am 'sassing' him. Now, Miss Libbey, if you were me, would you get your 'sass' out, too, or let him talk and fuss as much as he pleases and keep still?"

I think it would be better to ignore his foolishness. Then some other time, when he seems more reasonable, let him know how you feel in regard to his lack of consideration and selfishness.

COURT REFUSES TO DIVORCE CHILDREN

After holding the case under advisement since January 22, County Judge Little yesterday refused to give Goldie Henderson a divorce from Gola Henderson.

"The girl is only 15 years old," said the court, "and her husband is, and there is a fair chance, I think, for the children to make up. In any event she should not be seriously injured by being refused a divorce at this time."

When she sought a divorce from her boy husband, Goldie Henderson said that she married when she was 13 years old. She declared that her husband beat her and forced her to work in a laundry to support him, and that she left him a year after their marriage. They were married here February 7, 1910, the consent of Goldie's mother and that of Gola's father being secured before the license was issued.

At the time the case was heard Judge Little criticized the girl's mother, Mrs. Milner, for permitting her daughter to marry so young. The woman said the two threatened to get married whether consent was given or not, and that she knew of no way to prevent it.

"It is a disgrace to civilization," said Judge Little, "that sane men and women should permit boys and girls barely in their teens to marry. There seems to be no punishment provided by law for parents who permit and encourage child marriages, but this court is going to do its best to stop them. If it cannot prevent the marriages it can at least stop any line of action through the divorce court."

Mrs. Henderson is the youngest person who has ever applied for a divorce in the El Paso county courts. In declining to grant the divorce Judge Little granted the girl's attorney five days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

COUNCIL MEETS TODAY ON LAND GRANT MATTER

At yesterday's meeting of the city council W. S. Nichols was given permission to build a garage on North Nevada avenue, north of Masonic temple, to be occupied by C. W. Blake. From present plans the building will be a two-story structure, and along the same general lines of architecture as the temple.

It was decided yesterday to hold a special meeting of the council at 2 o'clock this afternoon to take final action with regard to the Pikes Peak land grant question.

But little business was transacted yesterday. It was reported that the application of the Paris Drug company for a liquor license had been corrected, and it was ordered published. Permits were given the Ormonde hotel and E. Evans Carrington & Sons to put up electric signs, and the water bill for Bethel hospital was ordered canceled. Property owners interested asked for improvements to be made on Fountain, South El Paso, Santa Fe and Fort Worth streets by putting in ditches and grading. The request was referred to the street department.

WOMAN IS STRUCK BY BICYCLIST; UNCONSCIOUS

Mrs. Charles Blecha of 801 West Del Norte street, while crossing the street in the 1300 block on North Chestnut, with her four-year-old daughter about 5 o'clock last night, was struck by a boy on a bicycle and knocked unconscious. She was badly bruised about the head and shoulders but not seriously hurt. Mrs. Blecha was taken to her home and cared for by Dr. C. H. Olsen. The child was not injured.

The boy, whose name is reported as Robert Whitaker, did not see the woman because of the darkness.

There is no better medicine made for colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the lungs, opens the secretory glands, expectorates and restores the system to a healthy condition. For sale by all dealers.

ARTISTIC WORKMANSHIP WILL SUPPLY SEED TO EASTERN CO. FARMERS

Plans for supplying free seed to the farmers of the semiarid region of eastern Colorado were formulated recently at a meeting in the executive offices of the Denver chamber of commerce between the agricultural committee of that organization, representatives of the trunk lines running through that section, and Gov. John F. Shafroth. The needs of the farmers will be determined and the railroads then will purchase and distribute among those without means the necessary seed.

Because of this plan it is expected that the movement to further the flax industry in the state will receive considerable impetus. It being the plan of the agricultural committee of the chamber to find among the farmers of eastern Colorado some who will accept flax seed, plant it carefully, but the rules for its cultivation and set a good example for other farmers.

It is the contention of the committee, after much deliberation and investigation, that the growing of flax will produce a greater "cash" crop for the farmers of the semiarid land districts than any other crop. This is borne out by the fact that investigations show the yield per acre to be about the same, 14 to 15 bushels, while the price received per bushel is from two to three times as great as that received for small grain.

AUTOISTS WILL SPEND AT LEAST $6,750,000 IN STATE DURING 1912

At least 15,000 automobile tourist parties, averaging four people each, or 60,000 people, will visit Colorado this year. Calculating from the average time such parties remain in the state, their necessary expenses while here will be $6,750,000. These figures have been compiled from 1911 statistics by Dr. F. L. Bartlett, director of the good roads bureau of the Denver chamber of commerce.

Dr. Bartlett regards the figures as conservative, and believes, with proper advertising of Colorado's advantages for automobile travelers between now and the time the tourist season begins the number of visitors will be raised to 100,000.

Records kept by Dr. Bartlett indicate that 8,000 automobile touring parties visited the state during 1911. The average stay of each party was 30 days. The necessary expenses for each party is about $15 a day. So last year auto tourists brought into the state $2,700,000, absolutely unavoidable expenses, aside from incidentals.

Under the direction of Dr. Bartlett the bureau has recently issued a "Colorado road map," showing the three first-class automobile roads leading into the state and the 4,500 miles of automobile highways within the state. The first issue of 10,000 copies is almost exhausted, and 15,000 additional copies will be printed and distributed.

Commercial bodies of various other cities and towns in the state, including Colorado Springs, also have issued road maps and auto log books of the Colorado automobile roads. Many of these books and maps have been sent to commercial bodies in other states, and all are free for the asking. The people of Colorado have realized that a great deal of the tourist business these days is brought here in automobiles, and large amounts of money have been spent in building up the roads.

The automobile tourists of the country are beginning to realize the special attractions offered in Colorado, and that they can travel through the state without danger to themselves or their machines.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT

Charles Berndt, the Yoder, Colorado ranchman, who has been on trial in the district court the last two days on a charge of manslaughter, was yesterday found guilty of assault. The jury reached a verdict after being out three hours. It is probable that sentence will be passed by Judge Morris today.

Berndt was held responsible for the death of his wife, December 15 last, the testimony bringing out that he had a violent temper at times and that his wife died during a quarrel with her husband. It was at first alleged when Berndt was arrested that his wife's neck had been broken, but it was established later that the death was due to heart trouble. The quarrel arose when the two were digging a well. Berndt was working at the bottom, when a heavy stick fell down and struck him on the head. He was angry when he reached the surface, he said, and the quarrel with his wife began at that time. He is the father of nine children, the youngest of which is less than six months old.

1,500 DELEGATES MAY VISIT HERE NEXT JUNE

A movement is on foot to have the special train of the New York delegates to the National Electric Light convention in Seattle next June, routed through Denver with a side trip to this city. W. J. Barker, a member of the transportation committee of the association, has been asked by the Colorado Electric club to use his best efforts to have the 1,500 delegates come through Denver and Colorado Springs, and with this in view he will leave for New York Monday.

The order for the special train covers 40 Pullman cars and involves a revenue to the railroads of nearly $60,000.

If the train can be routed this way it will mean not only thousands of dollars spent in the two cities, but a considerable amount of advertising. It is expected that several of the leading capitalists of the country will be on the train. If Barker is successful in his mission, the commercial clubs of the two cities will be asked to unite in giving the light men a reception while they are here.

FIRE DEPT. WILL BUY ANOTHER MOTOR TRUCK

Another step in line with "motorizing" the fire department was taken yesterday, when the city council gave the department permission to purchase a chassis at a cost not to exceed $3,500. Funds to purchase the truck will be raised by the sale of a number of horses, and the saving each week in horse feed.

It is the intention at present to send the motor truck now at the central station to the north end when the new apparatus arrives, and to keep the new truck at the main station. The present truck has an unusually heavy chassis, and it can be operated to better advantage from the north end station.

Business Increasing; Opening Fourth Floor

S. J. Bush, manager of the Acacia hotel, has thrown open the fourth floor of the hotel to accommodate the winter business, which far exceeds that of preceding years. The fourth floor of the hotel is elaborately furnished and has seldom been used. Contractors are installing new heating fixtures on that floor, and all of the rooms are being redecorated. The floor will be opened next Thursday.

WIFE'S HEALTH RESTORED

Husband Declared Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Would Restore Her Health, And It Did.

Ashland, Ky. "Four years ago I seemed to have everything the matter with me. I had female and kidney trouble and was so bad off I could hardly rest day or night. I doctored with all the best doctors in town and took many kinds of medicine but nothing did any good until I tried your wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My husband said it would restore my health and it has."

Mrs. MAY WYATT, Ashland, Ky.

There are probably hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering. Read What Another Woman Says:

Camden, N. J. "I had female trouble and a serious displacement and was tired and discouraged and unable to do my work. My doctors told me I never could be cured without an operation, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am cured of that affliction and have recommended it to more than one of my friends with the best results."

DE PACHMANN RECITAL

KING FREDERICK IMPROVES
COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 9.—King Frederick is making such good progress in his recovery from his recent illness that only one bulletin will be issued daily by the physicians in attendance. His majesty passed a good night. His general condition is good, the inflammation of the lungs continues to decrease.

By A. C. PEARSON.
It is difficult to write calmly of last night's recital at the Opera house. To my mind it was about the perfection of piano playing.

Vladimir de Pachmann is not a "son of thunder." He is much more—a poet, perhaps. THE poet of the piano. Under his amazing fingers the piano was at its best, a responsive creature to be coaxed and flattered into giving up its stores of poetry.

The program was in two parts: the first chiefly an exhibition of beautiful tone; delicate virtuosity and elegant interpretation. We heard pianissimos of absolute clarity and ethereal lightness, singing passages of ever-changing color and pearly runs.

The second part was given up wholly to Chopin, and de Pachmann showed himself equal to his great reputation as an interpreter of this master. He has the peculiar sense of rhythm needed for the playing of Chopin. He can express perfectly that haunting, wild, grace and elegance inherent in Chopin's nocturnes and mazurkas, and his delicacy of touch makes the frequent ornamental passages things to dream over. He may not play the titanic creations of Chopin as he did the selections of the program—I don't know that he has the robust temperament essential for such work—but I repeat emphatically, what we heard last night was very near perfection.

The house was full, nearly 200 people being on the stage.

France pays taxes on a good year on more than a thousand million gallons of wine.

At The Theater

"THE PRINCE OF TONIGHT"

AT OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT
Possessed of a merit which strikes the elusive but unmistakable popular note more unerringly than most of the musical comedies now before the public, "The Prince of Tonight," which will be seen at the Opera house tonight, one performance only, (Saturday, February 10), ranks as one of the most notable achievements of those prolific writers of musical successes, Adams, Hough and Howard, and of Mort H. Slinger, the reliable producer who has earned the admiring confidence of the playgoer. To say that "The Prince of Tonight" is a Slinger production obviously means a wealth of tastefully conceived and elaborately executed scenic ideas. Henry Woodruff, a star whose artistic ability and personal attractiveness have long held him a favorite, is the predominant figure in the plot, which is one of real substance. The play opens at Palm Beach, Florida, on the night that a century plant blooms, when the air is full of magic. Woodruff, as a young collegian, in despair at being fitted by his sweetheart, is aided by virtue of the century plant to become a mythical prince of Lunitania for the night, at the end of which he is to die unless he is kissed by the girl he loves. Mr. Woodruff is surrounded by a large cast of well known principals and a big chorus. Each of the three acts offers really notable stage pictures, the first at "The Breakers," Palm Beach, then the beautiful Delft Forest in the mythical country of Lunitania, and a house boat at the picturesque water lily. A scene of kaleidoscopic beauty. The musical numbers are said to possess a merit which closely allies "The Prince of Tonight" to comic opera. Among the many song hits are "Tonight Will Never Come Again," "You Won't Know Anybody There," "I Can't Help Falling in Love," "Can It Be Love," "Her Eyes Are Blue for You," "Follow the Rain-bow Trail," "I Fall in Love on Monday," "I Can't Be True so Far Away," and "The Best Thing a Waiter Does Is Wait." Seats selling at the box office. Prices 50c to $1.50.

MISS GLASER'S AMBITION

Miss Lulu Glaser believes that the public taste for musical comedy is on the wane and that producing managers are making every effort towards better things in light opera. When Werba and Luescher selected Miss Glaser for the star part in "Miss Dudsack," one of the principal things, aside from the merit of the book, that influenced her to accept it was the unusually high class music which the composers have supplied. In reality "Miss Dudsack," like Werba and Luescher's first managerial success, "The Spring Maid," is an operetta in all that the term implies. Much of the dialogue is set to music, and this gives the piece unusual charm. Of her ambitions in the line of light opera Miss Glaser says: "Many persons have asked me what my greatest ambition in the theatrical profession is. In answer I always say that it is to produce really worthy comic operas, such for instance as my present operetta, Miss Dudsack. I believe that the public taste for the so-called musical comedies is on the wane. The good work done by the importation of new thought in the production of opera has all tended toward increasing the demand for better things among our countrymen, and I firmly believe has made the revival of legitimate light opera a permanent institution."

Miss Glaser will be seen at the Opera house Monday evening next, February 12. Seats now selling at the box office. Prices 50c to $2.00.

SEAT SALE FOR "THE THREE TWINS" TODAY
Seats go on sale today for "The Three Twins," one of Colorado Springs' most welcome visitors, season after season, because it is a sweet, pure, funny play, that will amuse all ages and classes of theatergoers. With a plot that would sound ordinary in the telling, it holds the attention of everyone until the finish, and when least expected the risibilities of everyone is tickled by some unexpected situation or flash of wit. It never tires, because it is natural, and yet the quaintest thing that was ever put on the stage. Critics have tried to analyze the play and have failed because it is simply what the public wants nowadays, a light entertainment that amuses you when you see it, and gives you a hearty laugh after you have gone home. This year the management have outdone all their previous efforts in the way of mounting the play, both in the way of scenery and electrical effects, and the costumes are the most gorgeous that have ever been prepared for a theatrical production. With the same big chorus of beautiful young girls, and with a cast of established favorites, the season of this successful play has been one series of turn-away houses, and the same thing will surely occur here next Tuesday evening, February 13 at the Opera house. Prices 50c to $1.50.

"THE GIRL FROM RECTOR'S" COMING

"The Girl From Rector's," which enjoyed a run of over 200 nights in New York, will be seen at the Opera house, Saturday, February 17. The work is by the author of "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge," whose stay at the Circle theater was second only to that of "The Girl at Weber's Music Hall." The New York Herald declared it to be the most entertaining vehicle ever presented at Weber's, and that it would probably live for many years to come. "The Girl" broke every record at that playhouse, surpassing by many thousands of dollars the figures reached by Weber and Fields, when theirs was the most popular music hall in all America.

MARY TATTAHERO, AS CINDERELLA

On Monday, the Odeon presents "Cinderella" with Mary Tattaferro in the title role. This is known as Odeon Feature No. 6 and should not be missed.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

IF A BALL PLAYER STRIKES OUT
WOULD AN ELECTRIC FAN?
IF A DOOR LOCKS
WOULD A THUNDER BOLT?

the general subject of "Know Your City." Miss Helen Gowdy will sing. Mrs. Charles E. Emery and Mrs. T. G. Fisher will have charge of the vespers, which will follow the service. All women are cordially invited.

Mrs. H. H. Seldomridge is arranging a program for the next fortnightly evening entertainment which will be held Friday evening, February 16, at 8 o'clock in the association rooms. A one-act play entitled "The Emerson Club" will be given by class six of the First Presbyterian Sunday school. There will also be several musical numbers and readings during the program.

Dr. Slocum at College Vespers Tomorrow Eve

At the Colorado college vespers service, tomorrow afternoon, in Perkins hall, President William F. Slocum will speak on "The Danger of Inadequate Conceptions of Duty." The sermon will be a call to young men and women, not only to live up to their ideals, but to educate themselves to see what is true and noble, that their aims may not be low. The college chorus will sing the anthem, "For Thee, O Dear, Dear Country."

ANNUAL INITIATION BANQUET THIS EVE

The annual initiation banquet of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity of Colorado college will be held at the Acadia hotel tonight at 7 o'clock. A musical will be given after the dinner. About 60 are expected to attend.

The address of the afternoon will be given by Dr. M. J. Tremay, Sunday school superintendent for Wisconsin, U. S. Parker, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday schools of this state, also will speak. The young peoples chorus will sing.

REED HAS RESOLUTION TO BAR THIRD TERMERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Senator Reed of Missouri will introduce a resolution next Monday providing for a constitutional amendment to bar any man from holding the office of president of the United States more than two terms of four years each, the filling of an unexpired term to be regarded as a full term.

Cascarets Cleanse Liver and Bowels

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Salty Skin and Misgiving Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which causes and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated and never know a miserable moment. Don't force the children's little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

SCENE FROM "THE PRINCE OF TONIGHT," WHICH HENRY WOODRUFF WILL BE SEEN IN TONIGHT AT THE OPERA HOUSE.
